

CERTIFICATE OF FINAL VERIFICATION

A PROOF INSTRUMENT FOR MEASURED-TO-FIT INFRASTRUCTURE SOFTWARE

This software works. It was built to this field and proven against it.
It conveys outright, with its proof, inside its own entity.

The property is OBSIDIAN

ACCEPTED FOR CONVEYANCE

a finality system for claims and custody

POST-QUANTUM AT THE SEAL

Two signatures. Both mandatory. Break one, nothing verifies.

Ed25519 (RFC 8032) and ML-DSA-65 (FIPS 204) — signed by one library, verified by another.

Moves to ML-DSA-65 by changing one value. That change answers the CNSA 2.0 names ML-DSA-87 for national security systems.

Each half verifies alone, so either may be set aside without rebuilding the record.

THE REACH OF THIS INSTRUMENT

Proven custom software, measured to fit the incumbent estate of this field — the systems and servers already running in it — and the compliance that binds them now and next.

The seal itself is post-quantum today, ahead of the federally ordered 2030 deadline. Outside time is still bound classically, as no commercial authority yet issues otherwise; when one does, the record moves to it by changing a single value. See The OBSIDIAN Legacy, Part Two — The Engineer's Implementation Guide, included in your deliverables.

Provenance is conveyed, not attested. The readable source ships; it does not depend on a binary to vouch for.

Commissioning is reserved to the acquirer, by design — their ground, their appointed authority.

Scanning is reserved to the acquirer's own security programme, where it stays current. The component register conveys inside the property, in the format that programme already reads.
